

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a feedback-controlled audio system. A single internal pressure-sensitive detector is used as the sensor. The primary radiator is mounted facing inward to minimize acoustical delay from the speaker. The present invention also provides a method for increasing acoustical accuracy using such an audio system.